Paris, the capital of love, is full of wonderful, storybook places to discover with your beloved. From romantic parks and intimate covered passages to evocative settings and sumptuous hotels, the city is the perfect place for a romantic escape, whether you're in the heady stages of new love or a long-term couple.

SECRET ROUTES TO DISCOVER EACH OTHER

Draw up a lovey-dovey itinerary

For a first stroll as a couple in Paris, pick up a map of the city and follow 'inspiring' street names. You could start at the Passage du Désir, in the 10th arrondissement, and then on to Rue de la Fidélité, only a short distance away, leading to ... Rue de Paradis! Or you could walk down Rue de la Gaïeté (14th) and Rue de la Félicité (17th). Newlyweds could explore Rue Monsieur (7th) and go on to Rue Mademoiselle (15th) before joining Rue Madame (6th), and perhaps continue on to the nearby Rue Princesse. To put an end to a lovers' quarrel, what could be better than a peaceful stroll along Rue de la Paix? In love, the language of flowers is particularly eloquent, and some secret corners of Paris are evocatively named. Take a walk along the Quai aux Fleurs (4th), Rue des Rosiers (4th), then Rue des Camélias (14th), before losing yourself in the utterly charming Cité des Fleurs (17th). More flower-themed streets: Rue des Glycines, Rue des Iris and Rue des Orchidées (13th), Rue des Primevères (11th) and Boulevard des Capucines (9th).

Romantic visits, with or without a guide

Allow yourself time to discover the romantic city streets with your sweetheart. A stroll can be instructive with Paris as You Like It: the tour guide takes visitors around the French capital's most iconic monuments. Delphine Lanvin offers walks in the footsteps of famous Parisian couples. Suggestive paintings, sensual sculptures, cheeky bronze statues: museums have many a work of art to make visitors blush. Tour guide Philippe takes visitors on a tour of a hidden aspect to the city - its former brothels. Instant Tours is happy to loan photography enthusiasts a vintage Polaroid camera during their tour. With Meet My Spots, couples get expert advice from a professional photographer while taking a guided tour. In the Nouvelle Athènes district, the Musée de la Vie Romantique houses a collection of souvenirs and objects relating to the writer George Sand and the painter Ary Scheffer. Other romantic icons: the Lady and the Unicorn tapestry at the Musée de Cluny and the painting of Romeo and Juliet at the Musée Delacroix.

Explore the covered shopping arcades

With their high glass roofs and quaint boutiques, the covered arcades of Paris are full of timeless charm. They are perfect for a romantic stroll away from the noise of the city, especially on rainy days. The most opulent ones are Galerie Vivienne and Galerie Colbert, with their neo-classical decor. Jean Paul Gaultier was one of the first people to open a shop in Galerie Vivienne. The Passage des Panoramas has been nicknamed 'the passage of the palate' because it has plenty of places to eat: there's a bistro, a Michelin-starred restaurant, a tea room and a wine bar. Passage Jouffroy and Passage Verdeau will delight those in search of collector's items and great little secret places. At the far end of Passage Jouffroy, the charming Hôtel Chopin with its old-fashioned decor offers a superb view over the rooftops of Paris - the ideal hideaway for a romantic weekend. The Passage du Grand Cerf and the Galerie Véro-Dodat are magnets for design fans. The Passage Choiseul is a popular spot to linger, and the Passage Brady takes visitors on a voyage of the senses with its numerous Indian restaurants. The Cour du commerce Saint-André, an open-air passage, is home to many secrets and historical details dating to the French Revolution, as well as Paris's oldest café the Procope, a favourite haunt of the French Enlightenment's great thinkers. Enjoy a break and a bite to eat in the different arcades - especially Beaupassage, where you'll find restaurants from celebrity French chefs and many artisan food producers.

Secret Paris streets

People around the world are familiar with the usual pictures and clichéd images of romance in Paris, but lovebirds in search of tranquillity will find plenty of romantic spots off the beaten track. Rue des Thermopyles, a cobblestone street, is an oasis of calm and greenery in the 14th arrondissement, offering a glimpse of a bucolic side to Paris, like the Cité Florale in the 13th, where even the street names - Orchidées, Volubilis, Mimosas, Glycines, Iris, Liserons - evoke the fragrance of flowers. Rue Crémieux, a stone's throw from the Gare de Lyon, provides a colourful excursion for people with a taste for the unusual. And then there's the Square de Montsouris, formerly inhabited by several artists, with its houses draped in wisteria and ivy. Enjoy the birds singing in some of the city's more unspoilt sites, such as the Mouzaïa district, in the 19th arrondissement, or the Campagne à Paris (the countryside in Paris), rue Jules Siegfried, in the 20th. The houses are tucked away at the end of small gardens and ivy covers the wooden doors and shutters.

ROMANTIC WALKS

The most beautiful views of Paris

The best viewpoints are for sharing with your loved one. The most famous is the one from the square in front of the Sacré-Cœur basilica, at the top of Montmartre hill. In eastern Paris, the hill at Belleville also offers a spectacular view. From the 56th floor of the Tour Montparnasse, the Ciel de Paris restaurant high above the capital offers amazing moments. Only the Eiffel Tower is higher - so high, in fact, that you'll sometimes literally have your head in the clouds. Great views are also guaranteed as you travel up the glass-walled escalators at the Pompidou Centre. At the top, you can carry on enjoying the vista and watch the sun setting over the city as you sip a drink at Chez Georges, the restaurant on the top floor of the modern art museum. Note to the intrepid: the tethered hot air balloon at the Parc André Citroën takes you up into the sky to hover over the park from a height of 150 metres. The Terrass Hotel rooftop affords another viewpoint over the city from this part of Montmartre. The narrow streets winding from Place du Tertre offer spectacular views of Paris, and the little-known Butte Bergeyre in the 19th arrondissement stands right opposite the Sacré Cœur. Strolling through the Parc des Buttes Chaumont feels like walking on the city's rooftops, as if on a tightrope. La Défense is an area with less warmth, but with a fabulous view of the Arc de Triomphe in the distance. You can also see this contemporary district from the Fondation Vuitton terraces, along with the green hills around the outskirts of Paris.

Legendary bridges and footbridges for sharing a lingering kiss

Bridges can also be very romantic! Maybe because the arch symbolises an alliance, or because water will carry away even the craziest promises ... Tradition dictates that those in love should kiss while making a wish on the Pont Marie, nicknamed the Lovers' Bridge. Even if you're not in love, you still have 37 bridges and 49 pedestrian footbridges across the Seine to choose from!

The Bichat pedestrian footbridge (10th) is a great place to stand hand in hand and watch the barges perform their ballet while the locks fill on the Canal Saint-Martin. The Pont au Double (4th), which links the square in front of Notre Dame to Quai de Montebello, is ideal for losing yourself in thought while gazing at the Seine riverbanks. The Rue de Crimée lift bridge (19th) affords a lovely view over the Bassin de la Villette Ourcq Canal. Crossing the Arsenal Marina on the Mornay footbridge (7th and 12th) with your loved one, you may even be tempted to cast off and sail away together... The BZ/12 footbridge (12th) on the Coulée Verte spans the garden known as Jardin de Reuilly: the perfect spot to stretch out for a siesta on warm days.

Romantic green spaces

Nature lovers will be in seventh heaven in Paris's many parks. With 106 huge statues, bandstands where musicians perform in fine weather, and superb gardens, the Jardin du Luxembourg inspires couples to get lost in delightful reverie. The famous Fontaine de Médicis is the perfect spot to declare your love. Created by the painter Carmontelle in the 18th century, the Parc Monceau is a shrine to Paris romance. It is filled with secret spots where lovers can hide away, and a little bridge on which to exchange languorous kisses. The Parc des Buttes Chaumont feels like the countryside in Paris and has many romantic features: little streams, magnificent waterfalls, a big lake and a viewpoint at the top of the hill. After a boat ride on the Lac Daumesnil, couples can pay homage to their love at the Temple de l'Amour. The Roseaie is an inviting place for a leisurely stroll amid a sea of roses. For a brisk walk with your lover, the Coulée Verte, a 4.5-km walkway through gardens, parks, trees and plants, is just the place. A perennial source of inspiration for painters, writers, filmmakers and singers, the banks of the Marne River are very romantic: you can walk or cycle along the banks, try to spot plants and animals on the islands, which are protected nature reserves, admire the holiday villas along the river, sip a glass of white wine in one of the famous open-air guinguettes, or take to the water together in a two-person canoe or kayak.

Poetic itineraries

Sometimes it's enough to just walk around the city and soak up the romantic atmosphere of Paris. Couples setting off hand in hand to admire the finest Parisian monuments should start with the view from the Arc de Triomphe. Then head along the Champs-Élysées, the world's most beautiful avenue - a memorable stroll. A quick detour to the Musée Jacquemart-André is highly recommended. This superb Second Empire townhouse houses a rich collection of paintings, furniture, frescoes and tapestries dating to that era. Continue on to the Grand Palais to admire its magnificent nave, then make your way to the majestic Place de la Concorde. Only a few metres on, you will come to the beautiful Tuileries Gardens designed by André Le Nôtre, the undisputed master of the formal French garden. For a shot of culture in the area, you can choose between the Musée de l'Orangerie and its collection of Monet masterpieces or the temporary exhibitions at the Jeu de Paume. And of course the world's greatest museum welcomes all history and art lovers - no romantic break in Paris would be complete without a visit to the Louvre. Not far away is the Marais with its narrow, pedestrian-only streets: a district of choice for a stroll with your loved one. The secretive and authentic atmosphere of the area transports lovers straight to the 17th century. This is where you'll find the Musée Picasso and the Musée Carnavalet, but also the Maison de Victor Hugo, an emblem of the French Romantic movement, on Place des Vosges. It would be hard to find a more romantic and poetic spot than this square flanked by sumptuous townhouses and beautiful arcades, with a lovely garden in the middle. Up in the northern part of the city, Montmartre Hill is popular with lovers for its bohemian atmosphere, which makes for an enchanting stroll. A stone's throw from the Sacré-Cœur Basilica, the Montmartre cemetery is a must-see where you can walk among the tombs of famous French people such as Stendhal, Berlioz and Dalida. Then make your way to Avenue Junot to admire the art deco mansions and the charming street known as Villa Léandre. Stop off at the Musée Montmartre and linger in its lovely Renoir Gardens. Next door, you'll find the characteristic Moulin de la Galette, a former windmill. The 'I Love You' wall has nearly 1,000 declarations of love in more than 300 languages. In the daytime, couples can have their portrait sketched by the artists on Place du Tertre, or their initials embroidered on an offcut at the Marché Saint-Pierre. Every year, during the harvest festival, couples can publicly pledge their commitment during the annual 'Non-Marriage Proposals' ceremony conducted by the Mayor.

PARIS ROMANTIC

ROMANTIC MODES OF TRANSPORT

Cruises on the Seine

There's nothing quite as romantic as inviting your beloved for a dinner cruise or sightseeing cruise along the Seine to admire Paris's most beautiful monuments. The restaurant boats of La Marina de Paris serve refined cuisine made from fresh market produce, and the Bateaux Parisiens offer outstanding views from their all-glass dining room - not forgetting the famous Bateaux-Mouches®. The guinguette (open-air dance hall) spirit has reached the Seine with the Belle Vallée, a paddle-boat with an accordionist on board every Thursday for a lively musical boat trip. Cruises along the Canal Saint-Martin, passing through locks and swing bridges, will appeal to those eager to spot reminders of bygone popular and bohemian Paris. The yacht Joséphine offers a unique experience: a romantic dinner followed by an entire night on board, on the Seine, with a fantastic view of the Eiffel Tower from the Jacuzzi on the roof. Vedettes du Pont Neuf organizes concerts on the Seine and champagne-tasting cruises, for musical moments and sparkling fun!

Hire a limousine or splurge on a personal chauffeur

A chauffeur-driven limousine or Hummer for an evening out is an ultra-glamorous experience. Included in the package: champagne and views of the most beautiful Parisian streets and avenues. The latest stylish fad is to opt for a vintage car, which offers all the comfort of modern vehicles but also has that little extra something.

Why opt for an ordinary taxi when you can be driven around Paris in style, like some well-guarded celebrity, by your own personal chauffeur? Hire a top-of-the-range van, motorcycle, or saloon car to take you to the destination of your choice. With these new personal chauffeur services, you'll enjoy a comfortable ride and attentive service at affordable prices.

UNUSUAL PARIS WITH YOUR BELOVED

Offbeat romantic ideas

There are a thousand different ways to declare your love. Those with a taste for the unusual will find that Paris has many unexpected places in which to give voice to one's feelings. The amazing wedding room at the Bobigny town hall, designed by the contemporary artist Hervé Di Rosa, is a colourful, cosmopolitan and whimsical shrine to love. Lovers of a poetic bent often choose to vow eternal love in one of Paris's iconic cemeteries. A place synonymous with the romance of Paris, the Père Lachaise cemetery is home to the tombs of some of the great names of the French Romantic movement, such as the poets Guillaume Apollinaire, Eugène Delacroix and Paul Eluard. Constantin Brancusi's sculpture 'The Kiss' at the Montparnasse cemetery is the perfect place to express your undying love. For an intimate and wonderfully romantic escape, lovers can explore the Canal de l'Ourcq on a little boat from the company Marin d'Eau Douce, for which you do not need a licence. Flying over Paris in the world's biggest tethered balloon is an experience that couples with a head for heights will adore. Book lovers will enjoy cuddling up together over a book and a glass of wine in the candlelit corners of the bar/bookshop La Belle Hortense. Shakespeare & Company, the paradise of all self-respecting lovers of literature and romance, is an English bookshop with cosy, cushion-strewn spaces where you can browse and daydream together. Another unusual thing to try: saying it in French. Take a private lesson with French à la carte and learn to whisper sweet nothings in the most romantic language of all. And, to learn about the French art of living with your beloved, sign up for a workshop with Artoottravel on themes such as fine food, jewellery, luxury and wine appreciation.

Unusual ways to travel

An unusual vehicle is a memorable way to get around town with your loved one. Inspired by Asian rickshaws, pedicabs and tuk-tuks are certainly a different way to go exploring the streets of Paris. A tandem bike too is a great way to spend time together and share a fun experience. And to get even closer together, lovers can rent a Vespa or other brand of scooter. Car enthusiasts will find that a ride in an authentic classic car is something they won't forget in a hurry. Either as a convertible or with a glass roof, the legendary Citroën car is the ideal form of transport to see Paris. A guided tour of Paris's most beautiful places in an exclusive 1970s DS Limousine is another wonderful way to add vintage charm to an outing. The Segway, an electric unicycle that you ride standing, is good fun and an offbeat way to explore the city's hidden corners and lanes together. Couples with a spirit of adventure will enjoy a motorcycle tour with France Moto Road Trip, setting out together from Paris to discover France's wonderful heritage, its chateaux and its vineyards. A ride in a horse-drawn carriage in Paris is a truly magical experience. Lulled by the clip-clop of horses' hooves on the cobbles, you can enjoy a leisurely outing in a Cinderella-style carriage for two to four people. And couples who believe in thinking big will jump at the chance to take to the skies in a helicopter and see all of Paris and its region from on high.

Restaurants with a difference

It's not for nothing that Paris is synonymous with unparalleled gastronomic experiences. Couples in search of new and unique flavours will easily find ways to satisfy their curiosity. Dans le Noir is a restaurant where lovers can try out the unusual experience of dining in total darkness. All your other senses will come alive! For a romantic dinner in an amazing setting, head to the Blue Elephant with its Thai village atmosphere complete with little bridges, lush plants and tinkling fountains. Nature lovers will enjoy a picnic on the banks of the Canal Saint-

PARIS ROMANTIC

Martin or in one of the city's many parks and gardens. And, for a typically Parisian vibe, there's nothing like the charm of an old-fashioned guinguette. In the heart of the Buttes Chaumont park, the guinguette-style cafe Rosa Bonheur, housed in a listed building, is a very popular spot for dancing on fine summer evenings along with people from the local area. A short distance from the Pont Alexandre III, the fixed barge named 'Rosa Bonheur sur Seine' is a great place to relax. Even more unusual, the Chalet des Îles, on the banks of a lake in the Bois de Boulogne, offers a bucolic setting in summer and a cosy setting in winter with its lovely fireplace. Nearby, visitors can venture onto the Ile de la Jatte in Neuilly-sur-Seine for dinner at the very traditional Guinguette de Neuilly, or the restaurant 'Les Pieds dans l'eau', which has an enormous terrace overlooking the Seine. If you're looking for a really unusual place to have a drink, go to Maison Souquet. Formerly a bordello in the heart of the Pigalle district, it is now a boutique hotel with a secret cocktail bar and sumptuous 'Salon of 1001 Nights'. Another charming place for an intimate rendezvous is the beautiful garden of the Grande Mosquée de Paris, where you can share an Oriental pastry and a pot of mint tea. The über-stylish OFF Paris Seine is a floating hotel/bar on the Seine that even offers the luxury of a pool to dip your feet in on days when you want to cool off. A lime green barge called Petit Bain moored just below the French National Library (BnF, Bibliothèque Nationale de France,) houses a floating cultural centre, where you can enjoy electro music in the concert hall and an open-air bar.

LAZY DAYS

Brunch just out of bed

PARIS ROMANTIC

What better way to start the day than a copious brunch with your sweetheart? Spend a leisurely morning treating yourself to a selection of viennoiserie, tartines (slices of bread spread with butter, jam or both), pancakes, cooked dishes, desserts and cakes. The hard part is deciding which of the many brunch places in Paris to choose, as each one offers something different: luxurious setting, all-you-can-eat buffet, lively atmosphere, organic food, unusual concept, etc.

Coffee, tea and pastries

After wearing out your feet exploring the city, a tea or coffee break is very welcome! Cuddle up to your partner over a hot beverage or sweet treat. Paris has many coffee shops where you can choose from different types of coffee and nibbles. Foodies will make a beeline for cakes & pastries or maybe even a tea room. Ladurée's famous French macarons are exquisite on their own or with a cup of tea. For an Oriental atmosphere, go to La Grande Mosquée, where you can sit on the lovely patio sipping mint tea and eating traditional Middle Eastern pastries. And Alain Ducasse's chocolate factory and shop is a sheer delight for any chocolate lover.

A wellness interlude as a couple

Indulging in a pampering session at one of the many spas in Paris is a blissful way to spend quality time together. Dans le Noir is unique in that it offers a range of treatments performed by blind or partially-sighted attendants, in total darkness. If you and your beloved have a taste for luxury, then the wellness centres at Paris's palace or five-star hotels are the obvious choice, like the Diane Barrière spa at Fouquet's or the Six Senses spa at the Westin Paris-Vendôme. The Cinq Mondes spa offers a private suite for enjoying treatments as a couple. The major wellness brands have also opened their own places - the Nuxe spa, for example, or the My Blend by Clarins spa. There is a Middle Eastern atmosphere at the Hammam Les Cent Ciel, where you can enjoy traditional hammam treatments as a couple.

TABLES FOR TWO

Flirting on a pretty terrace

On sunny days, terraces on Paris streets are a favourite spot for lovers. Restaurants and cafés set out tables as soon as the weather begins to warm up. What could be more romantic than dining or sipping a drink outdoors as the sun goes down? The Provençal charm of Le Sud will transport foodies to the South of France. The Café des Marronniers boasts an idyllic location in the heart of the Jardin des Tuileries. At the beautiful art deco restaurant La Coupole, you can enjoy a seafood platter on a terrace while watching the bustle of the Boulevard Montparnasse. Les Ombres, the rooftop restaurant at the Musée du Quai Branly, offers a spectacular view of the Eiffel Tower lit up at night. The patio of the Brasserie Barbès is a favourite with fans of traditional Parisian brasserie fare. If you're looking for a good place to sip a drink in the company of your beloved, it's hard to beat the lively, friendly atmosphere of the terrace of the Grand Marché Stalingrad, a short distance from the Bassin de la Villette. The Jardins du Marais is one of the largest private gardens in the French capital, dotted with potted palms and cosy little seating areas in summer.

Restaurants with a view and rooftops

In Paris, there is no shortage of restaurants with a view. The Eiffel Tower is obviously a must-do. At a height of 125 metres, the Jules Verne restaurant with its gastronomic menu by Alain Ducasse provides a panoramic view of the city. The Tour d'Argent, overlooking the Seine and Notre-Dame Cathedral, needs no introduction. Designed by Philippe Starck, the bar of the Kong on the 5th floor of a Haussmannian building offers a superb view of the Pont Neuf and the Seine. Wonderful vistas of Paris can also be had from the terrace of the Maison Blanche gastronomic restaurant, the rooftop/terrace restaurant Les Ombres at the Musée du Quai Branly, the Georges at the Pompidou Centre, the Lebanese restaurant Zyriad by Noura on the top floor of the Institut du Monde Arabe, and the 39V in the heart of Paris's 'Golden Triangle' district. A number of Paris hotels also have wonderful restaurants tucked away on their rooftops. The top floor of the Hotel Raphaël has a restaurant and bar with a sweeping view over Paris rooftops. And the Benkay is a gem of Japanese cooking on the 4th floor of the Hôtel Novotel Paris Tour Eiffel. Le Ciel de Paris on the 56th floor of the Tour Montparnasse lords it over the city. Among the rooftops popular with Parisians in summer are the various branches of the Perchoir, including the one on top of the Gare de l'Est under the Eiffel half-rose window, the Perchoir Marais with its cosy winter terrace and the one on the rooftop of an industrial building near the trendy Oberkampf district with a view of the Sacré-Cœur basilica. The 43 Cocktail Bar at the Holiday Inn Paris-Notre Dame offers one of the most spectacular views of Paris, to be enjoyed in warm weather. A hanging garden ('jardin suspendu') and green roof on the rooftop of a big car park is one of the city's latest such spots.

Sparkling Paris: Champagne time!

PARIS ROMANTIC

‘Champagne helps wonder,’ the French writer George Sand once wrote. To seal your love for one another or just to enjoy a romantic moment, nothing can replace the magic of champagne. The oldest bar in Paris devoted to this celebratory drink is Le Dokhan’s near Trocadéro. Wood panelling, mirrors and candles make this a classy place. The champagne bar on the third floor of the Eiffel Tower is an ideal place for a ‘heady’ toast to happiness, and so is the terrace of the Tour Montparnasse. Dilettantes in Saint-Germain-des-Prés has 130 different champagnes, and a bar and a cellar for tastings. Les Bulles de Paris is a hotel where suites are named after the great Champagne houses. Go even further with the bubbly theme by sampling some of the hotel’s fine vintages. On the Montmartre hillside, you will find the champagne bar and fine deli La Dégustation, a wonderful place for wine-lovers to stop off and taste the offerings of an extensive menu alongside the capital’s connoisseurs.

Sip a cocktail with your loved one

Sip a cocktail skilfully mixed by a savvy bartender while gazing into your loved one’s eyes. Rum, vodka or tequila-based cocktails, exotic cocktails, or one-off concoctions: raise a toast to your sweetheart in one of the French capital’s intimate and specialist cocktail bars. There is a growing trend for speakeasies or ‘bars clandestins’, well-kept secrets with a snug atmosphere, away from the crowds and the gaze of onlookers. A must-try: the Maison Souquet, a former bordello transformed into a cocktail bar, and its sumptuous ‘Salon of 1,001 Nights’.

Seats for two

The dim lighting in cinema auditoriums creates a romantic atmosphere for couples in love and an opportunity for French kissing or stolen kisses. At the MK2 Bibliothèque and MK2 Quai-de-Loire cinemas, couples can nestle in each other's arms in a cosy red two-seater armchair (without arm rests). Red also, but in leather, the sofas of the Théâtre Ciné 13, in the romantic Butte Montmartre neighbourhood, have been specially designed so that couples can spend their evening entwined. Studio 28, a delightful cinema in the heart of Montmartre, shows new films and classics in the original language. In summer there are a number of open-air film festivals, and there's nothing more romantic than enjoying a picnic while watching a movie under the stars. If you'd like to spend an evening at the theatre with your beloved, check the website www.theatreinparis.com for details of all the plays suitable for visitors: French classics with English sur-titles, famous musicals, etc. The sumptuous decor of the Palais Garnier is a favourite with classical music fans who come to watch performances of the greatest operas. And, to spin dreams about your future together, head to the Palais Royal garden, where Quebec sculptor Michel Goulet has created ten 'Confidants' poem-chairs. You can sit in these loveseats, side by side or back to back, and read their quotes that lend themselves to amorous reverie ... 'I walk to you, I stagger to you, I die of you' - Gaston Miron.

An evening at a cabaret show

PARIS ROMANTIC

French cancan and lead dancer: everything is here to transport you to the Paris of the belle époque and the Roaring Twenties. The revue Féerie is still on at the renowned Moulin Rouge, a symbol of Parisian nightlife. The Paradis Latin presents the amazing Paradis à la Folie, a sparkling revue with high-spirited cancan. At the Crazy Horse, the show Totally Crazy spices up cool evenings. Since April 2015, the Lido de Paris has been showcasing a revue staged by Franco Dragone, bringing fresh excitement to the French capital. And Jean Paul Gaultier's Fashion Freak Show, a captivating insight into the world of cabaret, can be enjoyed at the Folies Bergère until April. It's a fairy-tale extravaganza of dance and lighting.

A last tango in Paris

What could be more romantic than dancing? There are several places in Paris you can go to tango, salsa, waltz, etc. At La Bellevilloise, you can have lessons to learn the tango, the swing or even the 1920s lindy hop. At La Casa del Tango, people dance as they did in the most romantic times of the past, in a very Parisian way. And for beginners, some places like the Théâtre de Verre offer classes a few hours before the dances organized at weekends, as well as flamenco and modern dance lessons. On Sundays, don't miss the thoroughly Dominican Republic atmosphere and bachata dancing lessons on the Nix Nox barge. In summertime, the banks of the Seine come alive when people flock to the Jardins Tino Rossi to perform a variety of dance styles to many different kinds of music.

LOVING NIGHTS

Stylish hotel rooms

The aptly named Hôtel Amour, in the South Pigalle district, has 20 guest rooms with love-themed decor, as well as a pretty leafy terrace. And now it has a big brother, the Hôtel Grand Amour, on Rue de la Fidélité. Montmartre Mon amour is a 4-star hotel devoted to all aspects of love: eternal, sincere or passionate, illustrated by couples like Edith Piaf and Marcel Cerdan or Paul Verlaine and Arthur Rimbaud. Hôtel Les Plumes, with the characteristic atmosphere of a 19th-century boarding house, has named some of its guest rooms after famous lovers of the time, including George (Sand), Alfred (de Musset), Juliette (Récamier) and Victor Hugo. At the Jules & Jim, named after Truffaut's film, the guest rooms overlook Parisian rooftops or paved courtyards and have an arty atmosphere with huge portrait photos. The hotel Vice Versa by designer Chantal Thomass plays on sensuality, on the theme of the seven deadly sins. Then there is the Grey Hôtel, with 33 cosy, elegant rooms. The 5-star boutique hotel Roch Hôtel & Spa features interiors designed by decorator Sarah Lavoine. A short walk away from Opéra, it offers a soft, plush atmosphere that's just perfect for a love tryst. Also tucked away from the Grands Boulevards is the Adèle & Jules hotel, a haven of chic with beautifully elegant decor. Or step outside time by checking in at the Square Louvois hotel and relax under the vaulted ceiling of its well-being area, in a gorgeous swimming pool with hydromassage bench. At Hôtel Napoléon, a short walk from the Champs-Élysées, lovers will feel they've stepped back in time to the Empire.

Hotel room numbers to note

On a discreet street close to the Jardin du Luxembourg is One by the Five, an annexe of the Five Hotel: an exceptional suite with a bedroom where the bed does not touch the floor ... for a night of weightlessness. At the Seven Hotel in the heart of the Latin Quarter, the Sublime suite with its round suspended bed and picture-perfect decor is a cosy and sublime cocoon. Another option: the suite Lovez Vous, with its terrace equipped with a Jacuzzi for two. There is also a Jacuzzi in the Dream Catcher suite at the Hôtel Legend, and on the terraces of the two suites on the roof of the Hôtel Félicien, decorated by Ted Lapidus. At the Hôtel du Petit-Moulin, tucked away in the Marais, Room 303 has a ceiling mirror above the bed. At the Hôtel Angely, with its chic boudoir decor, the Diamond Lovers is a small love nest with sparkling decor perched on the top floor. If you like the idea of a romantic swim together, just the two of you, L'Hôtel in Rue des Beaux-Arts enables clients, on request, to privately hire its lower ground floor swimming pool with vaulted ceiling. The Hidden Hôtel, a stone's throw from the Arc de Triomphe, has one extraordinary suite with a yoga wall. Using the harnesses on the wall, couples can do a workout with the (optional) advice of a yoga teacher. For a stunningly romantic view of the Eiffel Tower, head for the Hôtel La Comtesse - housed in a lovely Haussmannian building - and ask for Room 502, which offers the perfect vantage point.

A palatial stay

Fine dining

Reserved for very special occasions, palace hotels are the essence of luxury. Some are legendary, like Le Meurice the Ritz and the Four Seasons George V. Others offer more contemporary decor, like the Royal Monceau Raffles and the Mandarin Oriental. On Chaillot hill, the Asian luxury hotel brand Shangri-La is housed in the Palais d'Iéna, the former residence of Prince Roland Bonaparte. Its guest rooms offer wonderful views of the Eiffel Tower. After 4 years of renovations, the Hôtel de Crillon, the famous Parisian establishment on the Place de la Concorde has undergone a facelift. All of these palace hotels boast luxurious suites, a refined atmosphere, impeccable service, a concierge service, elegant bars and gastronomic dining. They are also the home of Michelin-starred chefs and their many restaurants offer a memorable and delectable culinary experience.

A Harcourt portrait

A professional photograph to immortalize the features of your loved one: what gift could be more appreciated? Created in 1934, the Studio Harcourt soon became the go-to place for Parisian high society. Numerous celebrities such as Marlene Dietrich, Salvador Dalí, Jean Cocteau and Marcel Cerdan had their photographs taken here. To capture a piece of eternity, visit the studio near the Champs-Élysées with your loved one. The Studio Harcourt Photo Luxe cabin, at MK2 Bibliothèque cinema and at many shopping centres, cinemas and hotels, takes instant photos in the same way as the famous studio.

Indulge your sweet tooth

Beautifully crafted confections from great pâtissiers, sweet treats from pastry chefs specializing in a single dessert, and signature cakes resembling works of art can be just as effective as a declaration of love at sunset. Christophe Michalak's gourmet creations, presented in individual shot glasses, are a delight for the eyes, while the cream puffs from Popelini and the profiteroles at Profiterole Chérie look like jewels in their colourful settings.

Seal your love with jewellery

Many jewellery designers and shops in Paris offer their services to help you find the perfect piece of jewellery to immortalize an unforgettable moment in your love story. To choose an exceptional gift for your beloved, head to Place Vendôme, where all the world's most famous jewellery brands can be found. The Or du Monde jewellery shop makes bespoke pieces. Laure Selignac does beautiful gold-embossed porcelain, while the brand Oggi displays one-off pieces crafted by a designer.
